Collaboration Tips

Following you will find a short list of hints and recommendations that are considered basic knowledge when starting to edit existing topics.

- Wiki has a very simple text formatting shorthand. In any case, you won't go wrong if you simply:
 - ◆ start each line without spaces
 - ◆ separate paragraphs with a blank line
- Run together capitalized words to form WikiWords:
 - ◆ WikiWords automatically appear as hyperlinks
 - ◆ make up meaningful, reasonably brief Wiki names - it can be a challenge (it'll sharpen you up!)
 - ◆ WikiWords has name-creation tips that may help
- If a discussion is going on:
 - ◆ separate each follow-up with a space
 - ◆ add your WikiName and the date at the end. Example:
-- Main.WikiGuest - 04 May 2024
 - ◆ OR, by all means, insert your comment where it seems to fit best:
 - ◇ you may want to insert it with a bullet and/or set it in italics so it's clear (always sign and date)
 - ◆ if you'd like to use an initial, use a link with label. Example:
-- [[Main.WikiGuest][ZXQ]] - 04 May 2024
- A good format for a new topic is "dissertation followed by discussion":
 - ◆ start with a brief, factual introduction, followed by double horizontal rules
 - ◆ let the discussion begin
- When a discussion dies down and the page becomes static, if you're clear on your course, feel free to refactor mercilessly:
 - ◆ fearlessly edit down to capture the key points
 - ◆ reduce the noise without losing the facts or the flavor
 - ◆ if you merge or delete comments, group credit Contributors: at the end of the page
 - ◆ This is how Wiki content matures and grows in value over time.
- For external site links, you can type URLs directly into the text - `http://etcete.ra/...` - it'll be clear to anyone where they're headed on click.
- Foswiki is intended for world-wide use, and an internationally understood date format like 01 Sep 2024 or 2024-09-01 is preferred. It's clearer than the xx/xx/xx format, where a date like 9/1/01 can mean either Jan or Sep, depending on the local conventions of the readers. For months, use the first three letters: Jan, Feb, Mar, Apr,...
- Check the source when you want to find out how something is formatted: click [Raw view] on the toolbar.
- To see earlier versions, click either on [History] (to see all previous versions of a topic) or click on the revision number you would like to see; the formatted revision version will be shown.
- To see the source of a previous revision, click [More topic actions], then at View previous topic revision, enter the revision number, mark the in raw text format checkbox and click [View]. A bit of HTML experience can't hurt, but you'll soon see with ShortHand how far that is from necessary.
